The Norwich Campus presents . . . a glimpse of history

The exhibit “YOU ARE HERE”, now on display at the Norwich Campus, offers a glimpse of the history of the land on which Roger W. Follett Hall, the new Norwich Campus academic building, now stands.

Assembled by the Chenango County Historical Society, this exhibit presents historical documents, photographs, and artifacts from the two major industries located on this site in the 1800s: the Norwich Pharmacal Company and the Hayes and Lattin Piano Company.

The Norwich Pharmacal Company (known by locals as “the pharmacy”) manufactured such products as Norwich Aspirin, Unguentine Ointment, Pepto-Bismol and other medications. The company was later acquired by Procter and Gamble Pharmaceuticals. That facility is now The Eaton Center, a business and economic development unit of the Chenango Area Chamber of Commerce, located adjacent to the Norwich Campus.

Since this area stood at the center of Norwich manufacturing and commerce during the heyday of the Chenango Canal, it is fun to think about canal “packet boats” loading and unloading goods where students are now taking classes and using laptops.

The exhibit, which is free and open to the public, will be on display through January.

Morrisville faculty, staff and students who haven’t yet seen the NEW Norwich Campus are invited to take this opportunity to do so before the snow flies! To arrange an individual or group tour, call Nancy at (607) 334-5144. You can also just “drop in” during one of our weekly “Walk-In-Wednesdays.”

The Norwich Campus: “Mustang Proud.”

Director Amy Barsha and Administrative Assistant Valerie Offutt of the college’s Corporate and Community Relations program were among staff who participated in the college’s health and wellness fair.
Attention Norwich Campus Students

Please drive with extreme caution when entering and leaving the campus.

Please be reminded to drive slowly – and respectfully – as you enter and leave the Norwich Campus. The area adjacent to campus is a residential area that includes Broad Street, Conkey Avenue, Elm Street, and Eaton Avenue. It also includes nearly 500 Eaton Center employees and visitors with whom we share common drives, walk-ways, and services.

Norwich Campus staff have received calls from residents and Eaton Center staff complaining about students driving recklessly. Out of respect for our neighbors, for your own safety and the safety of others, please drive carefully. Those not doing so risk being ticketed.

Thank you.

Morrisville State College Alumni/Development - Fostering Relationships and Finding Resources

Please consider volunteering with the Fall 2005 Alumni Phonathon. Research has shown that Phonathon calls made by faculty and staff volunteers result in the highest success rates. Donors respond most positively when called by people they have something in common with, so to maximize the success of our Phonathon, volunteers would be asked to make calls relevant to their department and/or interests.

Funds generated by the Phonathon, an important part of the Morrisville College Foundation’s fundraising campaign, provide scholarships for students in need and enhance programs on our campus.

The Phonathon, which began on October 17 and ends on November 17, runs from 6 until 9 p.m. Monday through Thursday evenings. In addition to faculty and staff volunteers, paid student callers staff the Phonathon.

Please call the Alumni/Development Office (ext. 6218) to schedule volunteer time for the Phonathon. Any and all volunteer callers are welcome throughout the four remaining weeks of the campaign. Thank you!
